

Dironna Moore Clarke Administrator, Office of Equitable Transit and Mobility, City of Richmond

Dironna Moore-Clarke is a seventeen-year transportation veteran whose previous experience includes serving as the Multimodal Transportation Policy and Planning Manager for the Virginia’s Secretary of Transportation Office and as a Transit General Manager, for the City of Petersburg. Prior to this, she worked with the State of Tennessee Department of Transportation assisting local and regional agencies in public transportation options, as alternatives to roadway and highway improvement choices. She also has extensive experience working with Boards comprised of local elected and appointed officials and other agency representatives, on urban and regional transit issues, system improvement, operations, and maintenance. She is a graduate of Virginia Tech and received a Master in Management from American Public University Systems. Moore Clarke has also served as the Multimodal Transportation Manager for the City of Richmond two years before taking on the role of Administrator of the Office of Equitable Transit and Mobility in 2020. She is happily married with four beautiful children.